Lector Workshop

on March 23, 2024

Bringing God's words to life is a powerful gift. It can change hearts, uplift spirits, and strengthen our community. That's why our upcoming Lector Workshop at St. Mary's on March 23, 2024, is something you won't want to miss.

The Lector Workshop is given by Andy Bassuday, a dedicated Lector at both St. Henry's in Helsinki and St. Michael's Cathedral in his hometown of Toronto. Join him for a day to discover how the Word of God is Alive & Active and how to share it with passion and clarity.

- Time: 11 a.m. – 2 p.m. on March 23, 2024

- Place: St. Mary's Catholic Church, Helsinki

This day is for everyone. Whether you've been a Lector for years, are just thinking about starting, or want to get better at talking in front of people, this workshop is for you.

Andy will be speaking English, but you can do your reading in your own language, whichever it is. You can bring a Bible in your tongue for your readings.

Join Us and Make a Difference. Be part of a community that cares, grows, and learns together. Make your voice heard and bring God's vibrant, life-giving words to others.

Taking part in this 1st workshop qualifies you to take part in a 2nd workshop later.

Sign up by e-mail to maria@katolinen.fi or, if you are already a reader at the English Mass, by e-mail to englishreaders.stmarys@gmail.com

I attended Andy's session at St. Henry's Cathedral in 2019. It was a good one. When Fr. Zenon was here, our readers at St. Mary's used to participate in similar sessions every year during the Lenten period. This is the first time we are having Andy here and I am really excited about this session on the 23rd March.
